

A FRUITFUL VISION.

How the Fresh Air Movement Began in Pennsylvania.

There rises before me the wraith of a village church in the far-off mountains of Pennsylvania, writes Jacob A. Riis, in Century. It is Sunday morning at midsummer. In the pulpit a young clergyman is preaching from the text: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these, My brethren, even the least, ye did it unto Me." The sun peeps through the windows, where climbing roses nod. In the tall maples a dove is cooing; the drowsy hum of the honey bee is on the air. But he recked not of these. In the peaceful day, his soul has seen a vision of hot and stony streets, of squalid homes, of hard-wisaged, unlovely childhood, of mankind made in His image twisted by want and ignorance into monstrous deformity; and the message he sees goes straight to the heart of the plain farmers on the benches; His brethren these and steeped in the slums; they gather round him after the service, their hearts burning within them.

I see him spending the next day toward the great city, a messenger of love and pity and help. I see him return before the week's end, nine starved wretches clinging to his hands and the skirts of his coat, the first Fresh Air party that went out of New York, 27 years ago next summer. I see the big-hearted farmers take them into their homes and hearts. I see the sun and the summer wind put back color in the wan cheek, and life in the shrunken and starved frame. I hear the message of one of the little ones to her chum left behind in the tenement: "I can have two pieces of pie to eat, and nobody says nothing if I take three pieces of cake." And I know what it means to them. Laugh? Yes! laugh and be glad. The world has sorrow enough. Let in the sunshine where you can, and know that it means life to these, life now and a glimpse of the hereafter. I can hear it yet, the sigh of the tired mother under the trees on Twin Island, our Henry-street children's summer home: "If Heaven is like this, I don't care how soon I go."

For the sermon had wings; and whithersoever it went blessings sprang in its track; love and justice grew; men read the brotherhood into the sunlight and the fields and the woods, and the brotherhood became real. I see to-day Willard Parsons, the minister, no longer young, sitting in his office in the Tribune building, still planning Fresh Air holidays for the children of the hot, stony city. But he seeks them himself no more. A thousand churches, charities, kindergartens, settlements, a thousand preachers and doers of the brotherhood, gather them in. A thousand trains of many crowded cars carry them to the homes that are waiting for them wherever men and women with warm hearts live. The message has traveled to the farthest shores and nowhere in the Christian world is there a place where it has not been heard and heeded. Wherever it has, there you have seen the heart of man laid bare;

BY WATER TO THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The City of St. Joseph, the beautiful excursion steamer so well known to our readers, is preparing to run special excursions from Kansas City to St. Louis during the World's Fair, making trips about every fifteen days. The plan is to take passengers to St. Charles from which place they can go daily by electric line, to the Fair grounds and return in the evening, sleeping and eating on the boat, as at a hotel.

On account of the bad weather and the unpreparedness of the Fair, the boat has delayed its departure and will not reach Lexington till June 2nd. The charges will be $3 per day, to include passage, board and street car fare to and from the World's Fair.

This plan of seeing the World's Fair is attractive, not only because of its novelty, but for the reason that it promises from the more, heat and other discomforts of the city, and offers a most picturesque trip down the river and back. The boat has ample staterooms and accommodations for guests.

Ed Ackerman the tramp cyclist, who has just come back from a most successful tour of England, will astonish with his dexterous feats and amuse with his eccentric comedy.

Don McMillan, whose peculiar dancing is without a parallel and who, it is claimed, can make all the other novelty foot workers fold up and steal away, and Harry Rowe, baritone vocalist, who sings the songs you like to hear, with illustrations, are also among the number of acceptable interruptions introduced between the acts Friday night. "The Runaway Wife," a comedy drama in four acts, will be presented with all the original scenery and mechanical effects incident to a complete production of this kind. Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. HYOMEI'S SUCCESS IN LEXINGTON Cured Many Serious Cases of Catarrh. Chas. W. Loomis Will Refund Money if it Fails.

No other medicine or treatment for catarrh has ever achieved such quick and remarkable success in Lexington as Hyomei. The fact that Chas. W. Loomis, when he first introduced Hyomei sold it under a positive guarantee to refund the money in case it did not cure contributed largely to its successful introduction. A guarantee from a firm like Chas. W. Loomis gave people confidence at the start.

Those who obtained a Hyomei outfit found that the treatment did all that was claimed for it; that the first few breaths of Hyomei cleared the air passages and gave an exhilarating and invigorating effect. Its continued use freed the system from all catarrhal germs, soothed and healed the mucous membrane, and made a complete and lasting cure.

Compared with the dangerous stomach drugging that had been used heretofore in the treatment of catarrh, the balsamic air of Hyomei created a most favorable impression. And the medicine itself did even more than was claimed for it. In fact, to make a success, it was necessary that Hyomei should cure nearly every case of catarrh in which it was used, for every outfit was sold on a guarantee to refund the money in case it failed.

If it had not possessed unusual merit, an offer like this would have resulted in an enormous loss. But curing as it did, Hyomei soon gained an enviable reputation and made many friends who recommend it far and near. Its success here in Lexington has been remarkable, and Chas. W. Loomis is still selling it on his personal guarantee to refund the money in case it does not give satisfaction.

MISS HELEN WHITMAN.

Miss Helen Whitman, 308 1/2 Grand avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"There is nothing like Peruna for that tired feeling, which gives you no ambition for work or play. After a prolonged illness, about a year ago I felt unable to regain my health, but four bottles of Peruna made a wonderful change and restored me to perfect health. As long as you keep your blood in good condition you are all right, and Peruna seems to fill the veins with pure, healthful blood. I thoroughly endorse it."

MISS HELEN WHITMAN.

Have you got nerves? Well, you ought to have nerves. But they ought to be strong nerves, good nerves. Does your hand tremble? You are living too fast. Does your heart flutter at times? You had better call a halt. Americans live too fast. They crowd too much into a single day. They have too little leisure. The hospitals and insane asylums are filling up. The quiet, pastoral scenes of yore are becoming rare. It's time that we quit this sort of business.

How to Get Strong Nerves.

First, repair the injury already done to your nerves. The way to do this is to do exactly as did Mattie B. Curtis, Secretary of Legion of Loyal Women, Hotel Salem, Boston, Mass. She said in a recent letter: "I suffered for over a year with general weakness and debility manifested in severe headache and backache. I took four bottles of Peruna, and for two months have been entirely free from these maladies."

Nervous Prostration.

Thousands of cases might be quoted in which Peruna has been used to rescue people from the perdition of deranged nerves, and put them on the good, solid foundation of health. The County And tor of Erie county, New York, Hon. John W. Neff, in a recent letter written at Buffalo, New York, stated: "I was persuaded by a friend to try a bottle of your great nerve tonic, Peruna, and the results were so gratifying that I am more than pleased to recommend it."

A Spring Tonic.

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Lula Larmer, Stoughton, Wis., says:

"For two years I suffered with nervous trouble and stomach disorders until I seemed that there was nothing to me but a bundle of nerves. I was very irritable, could not sleep, rest or compose myself, and was certainly unfit to take care of a household. I took nerve tonics and pills without benefit. When I began taking Peruna I grew steadily better, my nerves grew stronger, my rest was no longer fitful, and to-day I consider myself in perfect health and strength. My recovery was slow but sure, but I persevered and was rewarded by perfect health."

Mrs. Lula Larmer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
